
This trial was conducted on two different sites at Lilayi farm in Lusaka during the 1992/93 cropping season. The first site was irrigated land with wheat during the dry season followed by soybeans during rainy season, whilst the second site was rainfed land with a maize-soybean